LAW SCHOOL ENTRANCE STANDARD RAISED

Two Years of College Work Demanded, Dean Ferson Announces; Lincoln Cited As Justification.

"Beginning September 1, 1923, all candidates for degrees in the Law School must complete one year of academic work and after September 1, 1925, two years of college work for admission," Merton L. Ferson, Dean of the Law School, announced last week. The case method of instruction, now in vogue at George Washington University Law School presupposes a more thorough preparatory training than is necessary in schools still using the lecture and text methods. That the "case method" calls for a power of comprehension and reasoning far greater than is necessary in a school where the sources of law are predigested and dogmatically expounded, is the opinion of John Townsend, Secretary of the Law School.

A study of legal education was recently made by a committee of eminent lawyers representing the American Bar Association. The chairman of this committee was Hon. Elihu Root. After giving the matter of entrance requirements careful thought, that committee recommended that every candidate for admission to the

ANDERSON PREDICTS CLOSE PRIZE RACE

Explains Award of Prizes; Bans Councilmen; Last Day of Competition Near.

Robert Anderson, president of the Student Council, reports that the intensive campaign to secure additional signers to the student activity tax is progressing rather slowly at present, but indications show that interest will pick up in a few days, making an exciting and closely contested race for the six coveted prizes offered by the Student Council to the individuals who secure the greatest numbers of signers to the student activity tax.

The rules of the contest are simple. Only blanks signed between October 15 and November 1 will be counted. The Student Council probably will extend the time five days in order that contestants entering late may have a better chance for the prizes. When the contest closes the student who has obtained the most signers to the tax will be awarded the first prize, $50 in cash. In addition, other prizes of $25, $15, $5, $5, and $5 will be given to the five contestants who stand next highest on the list.

To make the contest absolutely fair, members of the Student Council will not be allowed to compete for the prizes.

To date no startling returns have been reported, so that anybody who enters the field now has a golden opportunity to secure a large cash award.

Starting today, a desk will be placed in the main hall of 2023 G Street for the convenience of the competitors. Here they can secure extra tax blanks, register to begin the contest, and report the results of the day's campaigning. A large poster has been placed in the hall, where the standing of the leading contestants will be posted each day.

Thus far no students attending the evening classes have registered for the campaign. Each contestant must write his name on the back of every blank handed in. This is important, as no credit can be given if this is not done.

LAW SENIORS BALLOT IN VAIN FOR PRESIDENT

After balloting unsuccessfully three times, the senior class of the Law School voted on Thursday, October 13, to postpone the election of their president until the following week.

When nominations were called for it developed that L. Jackson, E. See, J. R. Dally, A. E. Bladen and H. C. Kilpatrick were candidates for the office. After the third ballot Dally, Bladen and See had been eliminated, leaving Jackson and Kilpatrick as rivals for the office.

Miss Holiday was reelected secretary by a unanimous vote. Conway, Spalkin and Capt. Jenkins were nominated for treasurer. Capt. Jenkins being reelected by a big majority.

When the call came "Refreshments are served," the politicians forgot their candidates and rushed for the dining room.

HATCHET INAUGURATES HONESTY CAMPAIGN

Deans of All Departments Approve of Hatchet's Move, Authorizing Public Statements.

The Hatchet, in cooperation with the faculty of the University, has inaugurated a campaign to direct student opinion to the very serious question of the best means of raising the morale of the student body as a whole throughout the University.

In not only classroom examinations but also in the conduct of some of the student activities, certain petty forms of dishonesty have crept in, and it is in combating this menace The Hatchet and the faculty are engaged.

It should be realized that nothing will so speedily and certainly lower the standing of the University in the eyes of the public as a continuance of some of the practices in vogue among a few of the students.

There is but one possible remedy for this situation, and that is for each and every student to appoint himself a committee of one to see that no further trouble of this sort is allowed to continue in any form or in any activity.

The Deans of the several departments have all given their hearty approval to The Hatchet's honesty campaign and have authorized the following statements:

Acting President Hodgkins: "I am in hearty accord with the campaign for honesty being conducted by The Hatchet. Honesty is a thing that vitally affects the reputation of the University. The only way in which a campaign of this sort can hope to succeed is by each student giving his individual support to the matter. I sincerely hope they will do this."

Dean Wilbur said: "The Hatchet is interested in organizing a campaign for honesty. The thing that will safeguard our University life most effectively is the development of student opinion. The Hatchet is the best organ for developing this opinion. We need honesty in examinations; we need it in class elections; we need simple honesty, and clean, straight dealing in all relations of student life."

"It is of deep concern to the University that it shall have in the community a reputation for honesty and fair dealing, and that in public speech there shall come to be no feeling of falseness of any sort in the University. This matter rests completely in the students' hands. If they will sign their names to an agreement that by precept, example, and influence they will try to promote honesty in the student life, I think the thing will be done."

Dean Ferson of the Law School said: "I think The Hatchet's idea a splendid one. We do not feel the need of such a campaign here in the Law School so much as perhaps some of the other colleges do, for we have had an honor system, which has worked splendidly, in effect for over ten years, and we maintain this system by educating each new student in the principles that we stand for. More missionary work of this sort here, and in other colleges, would work wonders. It is the spirit or feeling about a thing that causes it to be done or not to be done, and if we can make a strong spirit against cheating it will not be done."

Dean Henning stated: "I am strongly in favor of the honesty campaign. I have found that where the instructor tries to match his wits against the wit of his students to stop cheating he invariably fails. I never watch my students. I am in the room only to answer questions. It is up to the student to be honest. I think this campaign will accomplish the desired results if given the support of the whole student body."

While dishonesty in classroom examinations is an evil to be deplored, dishonesty in the conduct of student activities is another obstacle in the way of true University development which should and must be overcome.

G. W. U. RICHER.

By a recent survey of the University property made by the real estate board, George Washington University finds itself richer by a quarter of a million dollars. A valuation has not been placed on the property for 11 years, and the report shows an increase on the holdings to be worth $300,000 more than has been carried on the University books during that period.

STRAY GREEKS MEET.

Postponement of the Wandering Greeks' smoker from October 15 to Saturday, October 22, at 8.30 p. m., has been announced. The smoker is to be held in the alumni room of the Law School.

ANNOUNCE LAST DAY TO RECEIVE ANNUALS

Holders of student activity cards for 1920-21 who have not yet received a copy of the 1921 Cherry Tree, the G. W. yearbook, should appear at The Hatchet office and claim a copy before November 1, for on that date the business management will consider all obligations filled and dispose of any remaining books.

Copies of the 1921 Cherry Tree are now on sale in The Hatchet office and in the office of the Secretary of the Law School at $3 each. Because the book published last year commemorated the Centennial of the University, the staff is anxious to give all incoming students this chance to secure the edition, declared to surpass any previous G. W. U. annual.

C. WALTER PARKER, Business Mgr., 1921 Cherry Tree.

DEAN HODGKINS ELECTED PRESIDENT PRO TEM.

Trustees Give G. W. Graduate, Professor and Department Head Task Resigned by Collier.

The appointment of Dean Howard L. Hodgkins as president pro tem of George Washington University was announced by the Board of Trustees at their last meeting, October 12.

As a student at George Washington University, President Hodgkins won many medals and prizes for proficiency in Anglo-Saxon, Greek, Latin, Metaphysics, Parliamentary Law, Public Speaking, and Debate. He graduated with the first class from Central High School in 1878. In 1883 he received his A. B. and A. M. degrees from Columbia College and his doctor of philosophy degree in 1892.

He was tutor in mathematics in Columbian College from 1882 to 1884 and assistant professor in mathematics from 1884 to 1887. From that year until 1905 he acted as professor in mathematics in the Corcoran Scientific School (now G. W. U. College of Engineering). He was dean of Corcoran Scientific School from 1897 to 1903 and has been dean of the College of Engineering of George Washington University since 1906. In 1911 he resigned as head of the Physics Department on account of the pressure of other work. He became dean of the Department of Arts and Sciences in 1913. In February, 1921, the Trustees of the University conferred upon President Hodgkins their highest honorary degree, that of doctor of science.

President Hodgkins is a member of Phi Kappa Psi and Sigma Tau fraternities, a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of the American Mathematical Society, American Physical Society, the Society for Promotion of Engineering Education, the Washington Academy of Science, the Washington Philosophical Society, the Washington Society of Engineers, and the Cosmos Club.

ENGINEER SOPHS ELECT; SUPPORT STUDENT TAX

The sophomore class of the College of Engineering held its election of officers on Thursday evening, October 13.

H. P. Ayers was elected president, Homan Kindle vice president, Olive Prescott secretary, Henry H. James treasurer and Clifton T. Whyte sergeant-at-arms.

Whyte addressed the class and asked their support for the student activity tax campaign. They responded by agreeing to act as a committee to push the campaign in the University.

DREXEL INSTITUTE TEAM EXPECTED TO BE EASY

Acting Captain Springston Predicts Forty-Point Victory.

Tomorrow's game with the Drexel Institute at Philadelphia, Pa., should be easy to the Hatchette steam roller after their battle of last Saturday. Last year the Quakers failed to win a single victory, but this year they have been doing better.

Anticipating an easy game, Coach Quigley is taking a large squad to Philadelphia, and in all probability many hidden satellites will be given a chance to shine. During the past week several late arrivals have been playing well. Ellis, former Drake University halfback, and "Josh" Licurione, a husky fullback, are running the ball in fine style.

Acting Captain Springston declares the team should run up 30 or 40 points against the Philadelphians.

G. W. U. BASKETBALL SCHEDULE ARRANGED

Veteran Team Back; Game Pending With Army; Play Navy.

After the curtain is rung down on the last act of the 1921 football season the Hatchette basketball tilters will take up the lance and are looking forward to a successful year against some of the best quints in the East.

With the exception of Connie Eskew all of last year's veterans will be back. Capt. Daily, Boteler, Loehler, Springston, Spear, of the regulars, will play. Others who will try for a berth on the team are Hatcher, Chesney and Brachlow, who substituted last year, and Butler, Birmingham, Colburn, Held, Goldstein, Newby and Brown from last year's frosh team.

The schedule is as follows:
January 3—Loyola.
January 7—Gallaudet.
January 10—William and Mary.
January 14—(Pending).
January 17—Georgetown (at Georgetown).
January 31—Georgetown (at George Washington).
February 4—Gallaudet.
February 8—Catholic University.
February 11—University of Virginia.
February 15—Navy (at Annapolis).
February 18—(Pending).
February 21—V. M. I. (here).
February 24—Washington and Lee (at Lexington).
February 25—V. M. I. (at Lexington).
February 28—Washington and Lee (here).

Games are pending with Kentucky and Army.

Virginia Military Institute was the South-Atlantic champion last year, while Kentucky was the Southern champion, thus insuring two scraps of championship caliber.

PERLIN HEADS DEBATERS AFTER CLOSE CONTEST

Fervid eloquence dominated the meeting of the Columbian Debating Society which convened at 8 o'clock on Friday night, October 14, for the purpose of choosing officers and voting in new members. Nearly 100 undergraduates and old members were present.

The two nominees for the presidency were Harry Perlin and Michael Mussman. Following brilliant flashes of oratory by both factions, Harry Perlin was elected president by the narrow margin of 47-40.

Mr. Perlin has participated in intercollegiate debates for four years and he is well known for his forensic ability.

Other officers elected are as follows: Mr. Reed, vice president; Miss Thom, secretary; Mr. Sorenson, treasurer; Mr. Abel, press reporter; and Mr. Swindler, critic.

GRADUATES COMPETE FOR COUNCIL POSTS

Acting on authority given by the nomination committee of the Student Council, the School of Graduate Studies has nominated Emmett J. Peterson and H. Leo Terry for membership in the council. Both men have been prominent in school activities, Terry having been a member of the original council and Peterson having taken part in many events during his stay as an undergrad.

Additional nominations for this election are desired, 10 per cent of the student body being required to nominate candidates. No date has been set for the election as yet.

NOTICE TO AXE STAFF.

There will be a special meeting of The Hatchet staff in The Hatchet office Monday, October 24, at 8 p. m.

NEW YELLS SELECTED TO AID SCHOOL SPIRIT

Eight Picked From More Than Forty. Cheering Practices To Be Held; Sokolov's Song Makes Hit.

More than 40 yells and songs were submitted to The Hatchet and the Student Council during the first week of the contest, Ralph Nagle, in charge of the competition, announced last night. David L. Sherman and Harry Sokolov vied for supremacy in this display of school spirit, the former submitting 36 yells, the latter familiarizing the school with his song, "The Buff and Blue."

The contest, however, will be open for one more week. "Many more songs and yells are needed in order to make a selection of the highest quality. Prizes will be given to students submitting the best," said Ralph Nagle.

Some of the yells have already been selected to be tried out in cheer practice and presented to the Student Council for adoption. The new yells and songs will be practiced, and new cheer leaders tried out in the different departments of the University during the next week, announced Bernard Burdick, chairman of the athletic committee of the Student Council. The time and place of cheer practice will be posted on the various bulletin boards. Cheer practices are to be conducted by "Red" McCaslin, acting cheer leader.

However, live-wire men are especially urged to try out, since this is a

INTERFRATERNITY SMOKER TO PRECEDE G. U. GAME

To arouse pep for the George Washington-Georgetown game, the Interfraternity Association decided to hold a smoker at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house the night before the clash, October 28, at the last meeting of the association, held at the Sigma Phi Epsilon house Sunday, October 16.

"Reds" McCaslin, University cheerleader, will be on hand and introduce the new school yells and songs at the smoker, and association officers will organize a cheering section of fraternity men at the game, it was said. The next meeting of the Interfraternity Association will be held at the Theta Delta Chi house October 29, President Neill announced.

CANNOT ACCOMMODATE STUDENTS AT CHAPEL

Forced to Stand Outside at Opening Services; President Hodgkins and Dean Wilbur Lead in Devotion.

The first chapel service of the year was held October 5 with an attendance so large many of the students were forced to remain outside. An address of welcome was given by President Hodgkins to the incoming students of the University, and he placed special emphasis upon the importance of chapel services and urged that all students attend.

The forthcoming Monday chapel meetings will be conducted by students at the direction of the religious committee of the Women's University Club. Wednesday services will be conducted by Dean Wilbur and Friday services by different members of the faculty. Prof. Smith will assume general supervision of the meetings, while the music will be under the direction of W. T. Bartholemew.

GIRLS FORM GLEE CLUB; PRESIDENCY TO D. LADD

"The doubled membership and great enthusiasm shown at the first meeting indicates a prosperous, progressive year for our girls' glee club," said Miss Dorothy Ladd, newly elected president, last Friday noon.

Miss Elizabeth Kendrick was elected vice president; Miss Teresa Lawrence, secretary; Miss Maybelle Bennett, treasurer; Miss Olive Prescott, reporter, and Miss Phyllis Atkinson, accompanist. Mrs. Swett was secured as director of the club.

Several concerts are being planned. The first one probably will be of Christmas carols given at the holiday season. Girls wishing to join should come to the chapel after the Friday noon services. It is expected Mrs. Swett will start the work this Friday.

C. C. SOPHS TO MEET.

Columbian College sophomores will organize and elect officers in the chapel of Lisner Hall Wednesday, October 26, at 8 p. m., Earle Manson, retiring president of the class, announced last night.

An Honor System

By recommendations from deans of the various departments and other leading men, The Hatchet comes to a realization of the necessity of instituting an honor system in George Washington University. Before any institution or organization can develop in personnel and stability there must be some moral ideal upon which it can function as a foundation. The honor system is the most plausible method to be employed in raising the morale of the student body, and give that common understanding and good-fellowship between professors and students which is necessary before any university can attain the state of being termed an honorable institution.

This is not the first time a movement has been started to install honesty and honor in this University. In former years individual professors have endeavored to infuse this idea into the minds of their students, and the different classes have passed resolutions to this effect; but in every case there has been a lack of interest on the part of the student body as a whole. What we need is an organization among the students common, something that works under cover of publicity and sentiment, is felt but not seen, and works for the good of the school, barring all discriminations and deceptions.

There is no need of extolling the merits of the system. What we need to do now is to formulate some method by which it can be installed at this time. Let us discuss the matter among ourselves and try to figure out some system that can be employed to bring it about, and in the meantime The Hatchet will be thinking the matter over.

Make Some Noise!

Forty school yells and a goodly number of songs have been submitted to The Hatchet and Student Council, it was announced as this issue went to press; but this is not enough.

No more will the students of this institution be satisfied with forty yells and songs, when there is a chance to secure three hundred and forty, than were we satisfied with a promising football team last year. Coaches Morse and Quigley, backed by the student body, developed the football team into a winning aggregation, and the progress of the school in that respect demands further achievement in our vocal support of the team at the home games, when we turn out and see the Buff and Blue eleven "treat 'em rough," as it is urged to do in one of the yells now used.

So come on, folks, heed the call, and tickle your brains and pens to produce the yells by which we can concentrate the encouragement our team will need when it meets Georgetown, Catholic University and all other gridiron rivals. "Pep" and noise are no more foreign to college students than our love of fun and fight, so devote a part of that lunch period to writing a yell which will add to the collection from which the council will select the school yells of the future.

By adding another yell to those now being considered you will give the judges greater choice in the selection of a school cry which will make the grandstand support of G. W. teams as formidable as the winning aggregation which represents our Alma Mater.

Strengthen Class Ties

[Prof. Chace, of the Journalism Class, instructed his students to hand in articles for The Hatchet instead of their regular exercises. Out of forty-nine received, this editorial is conceded the best.]

The student organization of the University, and, in particular, of Columbian College, presents on first experience to undergraduates who have matriculated from other schools a most bewildering spectacle. With vivid recollections of class lines sharply drawn, class football games, cane rushes, color scraps, and tugs-of-war, one is astounded to find among the student body no trace of the meek freshman, arrogant sophomore, patronizing junior, and lordly senior.

The bulletin boards of the University display to the second-year men no call to consider what badge shall distinguish the unassuming freshe from his more grandiloquent upperclassmen. Instead, a conglomerate mass of strange faces, heedless to the newcomer's existence as the proverbial ships that pass in the night, welcome his arrival and color forever afterwards his concepts of "the dear old Alma Mater." And so, unless the friendly tentacles of some fraternity draw him in, he becomes simply one in the sea of strange faces that attend night or day classes, with no particular love for the University into which circumstances has placed him.

A system of class distinctions can and should be maintained. The result would be an obliteration, to the benefit of all concerned, of that vague generality that seems to characterize the majority of the student body as simply being students in the University. When an undergraduate has acquired thirty or more credits, he should become affiliated with a strong sophomore class organization, wear its badge, and feel its status, whether it be at the fall opening, midyear, or in the summer school, and so forth for other classes.

As in unity, so in organization, there is strength; and it is a safe prediction that the tightening of class ties at the present time will affect to a greater or lesser degree the veneration, love, and gratitude that the student will feel in the coming years toward George Washington University.
D. L. Quinn.

STUDENT SLAVE SAYS:

The Student Tax would go across big if some students didn't have to tax their brain to think how much they will benefit themselves before signing.

One of 'em said he'd like to sign, but he really couldn't just now.

After he has gone to G. W. U. a couple more years he'll learn to sign his name.

When G. W. U. wins a football game they tell the world for two days that they are from G. W.—but when a solicitor asks them if they have signed the tax, then they can't even talk English.

When you stop 'em with a tax card you think you have made a mistake and are out in front of Gallaudet. You get the same blank look at both places.

If half the birds who said they did had signed the tax blank, the card supply would have been exhausted long ago and Bryan Morse would have money enough for a stadium, gym, and a varsity team in four places at once.

Coach Quigley may have a promising football team, but it doesn't compare to the "promising" student body.

HATCHETITES BATTLE INDIANS TO 7-7 TIE

Schofield Scores Touchdown From Pass; "Springer" and Ptak Star.

Playing a hard, fast game of football, the G. W. machine Saturday battled William and Mary to a 7-7 tie at Norfolk, Va. The Hatchetites played an extremely versatile offensive game, gaining both through line plunges and in the open attack. The much vaunted aerial attack was again greatly in evidence. The Buff and Blue completed 9 of 19 attempts to their opponents' 4 of 14 tries.

Springston, G. W.'s star field general, and Jim Ptak, Hatchetite left end, were easily stars for their team, while White played a stellar game for William and Mary.

bar should be a graduate from a law school which requires, among other things, two years of college work for admission. The recommendation was adopted by the American Bar Association and so represents a consensus of opinion in the profession at large.

The change in the admission requirements was proposed by a unanimous vote of the Law faculty and heartily approved by the Trustees of the University.

The following is an extract from the statement made public by Secretary Townsend last week:

"This new step has been taken by the University with a feeling of assurance that in this way it can render a greater service to the public and its students. From the public the demand is for better trained lawyers rather than for a larger number; from the individual student the demand is for a training such as is essential to success in a crowded and scholarly profession. There are exceptional men without college training who are capable of studying law and succeeding in its practice, but there is no satisfactory criterion by which to identify them in advance and rules for admission must be framed with the interest of the greatest number in mind.

"There are numerous instances of men who have succeeded in the legal profession without either college or law school education, but it should be noted that they are men who came to the bar in an earlier generation when a man with college education was exceptional. Abraham Lincoln is often held up as a lawyer of the highest type who never attended college or a law school; but even Lincoln keenly recognized the advantage such training gave.

"The Law School will be filled to capacity this year. Registration has not yet finally closed, and it is estimated that the entire enrollment this year will be in excess of 1,000. The new entrance requirement will tend to keep down the size of the school and at the same time improve the caliber of the student body."

HODGKINS SPEAKS AT W. & M. ANNIVERSARY

Represents G. W. at 140th Birthday and Inauguration of New President.

President Hodgkins represented George Washington University at the installation of J. A. C. Chandler as president of William and Mary College, at Williamsburg, Va. Mr. Chandler has been acting president for the past two years, but has just been installed this year.

This is the one hundred and fortieth anniversary of William and Mary College, and only those institutions whose educational activities have lasted continuously for more than 100 years have been invited to participate in the ceremony.

MASONS TENDER HIGH MEMBERSHIP; SEEK 100

Honorary membership will shortly be extended to all administrative officials of the University who are Master Masons by the George Washington University Masonic Club, it was decided at the first meeting of the academic year, held in the new fraternity house of The Travelers at 1432 M Street Northwest, Saturday night, October 15.

The club now has a membership of more than a hundred, including the dean of the Law School, Merton L. Ferson, and several professors. Fifteen applications were received and acted upon favorably at the meeting, and the candidates will be initiated at the next meeting. It is expected to swell the number of candidates to 100 before the middle of November, thereby making the largest class ever admitted at any one time.

ENGINEERS STAGE FIRST MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

The Engineering Society will hold its first meeting of the school year on Monday, October 24, 8:30 p. m., at the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house, 1829 Nineteenth Street Northwest, A. L. Lanigan, president, announced last night.
